... the words : "tu veux un apéritif" can be as heartwarming as "je t'aime", and as uplifting as the sound of a cork being pulled from a bottle . They can make you feel simultaneously cherished and excited . An apéritif signals relaxation and, often, a luxurious preamble to a good meal, though the "apéro" can be an occasion in itself, just as half an hour's drinking with friends.

A simple pleasure that makes a small but significant difference to everyday life . Serving glasses of home-made "vin du pêches" are served across all classes, from madame on her vine-covered terrace, to the local builders, sweat-smeared and dusty ... and is accompanied by simple food - slices of saussicon, olives or almonds, crôtes spread with goat's cheese, radishes with butter and salt, and hard-boiled eggs with tapenade, or a small spread of crudites !
